President- Obama 100 day Report: has he abandoned the way things were PEJ News - Joan Russow - Global Compliance Research Project - Throughout his campaign, Barack Obama declared that he would “chart a new course for America”, and in his victory speech he said: “This victory alone is not the change we seek. It is only the chance for us to make this change. And this cannot happen if we go back to the way things were.” And to all those watching tonight from beyond our shores.... Our destiny is shared. But has he moved the United States of America away from its years of militarism, competitiveness and fundamentalism. Enclosed is an evaluation on his 100 day program of the 100 proposals, issued in November 2008, to prevent the United States of America from “going back to the way things were.”

www.PEJ.org

IN HUNDRED DAYS HAS THE UNITED STATES CHARTED A NEW COURSE FOR AMERICA AND NOT PERPETUATED THE WAY THINGS WERE:

The hundred ways will be assessed by YES, PERHAPS, NO NOT REALLY, NOT YET and DON'T KNOW

1. to reduce the US military budget by reallocating military expenses and transferring the savings into global social justice as undertaken through numerous UN Conference Action Plans and UN General Assembly Resolutions. (NO)

2. To abandon the pre-emptive/preventive attack policy that has resulted in aggressive attacks on sovereign states and that has been in violation of the UN Charter article 2 and international law as being the 'supreme' international crime of a war of aggression (NOT REALLY BECAUSE HE DID NOT COME OUT AGAINST THE ISRAELI ATTACK ON GAZA)

3. To withdraw immediately from any military involvement and occupation of sovereign states including Iraq and Afghanistan. (NO BECAUSE OF TROOP INCREASE IN AFGHANISTAN)
