

Iran War

Written by

Tuesday, 10 May 2005 07:12 - Last Updated Tuesday, 10 May 2005 07:12

The word on the street is that Bush plans to go into Iran in June. This is based on the "precautionary principle" a term the Bush administration has taken from the environmental community and turned it upside down.

ref -airamericaradio.com - Randi Rhodes Show -= May 9 /05 Iran War

The idea is that we should move to pre-empt something on the basis that it is a possibility to happen (eg If Iran moves to obtain nuclear capability it might decide to make bombs so we should move to prevent them from what they could do)

The same thing applies to you. You should be arrested in case you run out of money and decide to rob a bank. The whole premise is insane.

The real reason to invade of course is the OIL