The provincial and the federal government need to do more to help indigenous people of this only unceded province of Canada, to become more independent of the governments. These governments need to do less for the government elected chief and councillors of this province, who do nothing to help the indigenous people of this unceded province. The government elected chief and councillors are so corrupt, we need to do away with many of them. The drug test need to become a mandatory test to do within many of these corrupt chiefs and councillors offices, including the department of indian affairs offices. Cocaine has become the ruler of many of the indigenous communities. <http://www.un.org/millenniumgoals/>

Every single day, 30,000 children die, needlessly, of extreme poverty. On July 6th, we finally have the opportunity to stop that shameful statistic. 8 world leaders, gathered in Scotland for the G8 summit, will be presented with a workable plan to double aid, drop the debt and make the trade laws fair. If these 8 men agree, then we will become the generation that made poverty history.

But they'll only do it if enough people tell them to. That's why we're staging Live 8. 5 concerts, 100 artists, a million spectators, 2 billion viewers, and 1 message... To get those 8 men, in that 1 room, to stop 30,000 children dying every single day of extreme poverty.

1. THE NEW AFRICAN WAY On June 22, IDRC's Dr Connie Freeman will be in Vancouver to speak at a public event about the major changes happening in Africa. Dr Freeman is the Regional Director of the East and Southern Africa office of Canada's International Development Research Centre (IDRC), which is supporting research in 22 African-countries.

The public presentation - The New African Way -- begins at 7 p.m. in the Alice MacKay Room, Vancouver Public Library, and 350 West Georgia Street. Parking is available and the nearest Skytrain stops are Stadium and Granville stations.

Based in Nairobi, Kenya and with over 30 years working on Africa issues, Dr Freeman brings her first hand insights into major shifts in thinking which are occurring on the continent. Historically, Dr Freeman feels that a major barrier to development in Africa has been the two-sided psychological state of "dependency" between African and Western countries. In recent years, she has seen this dependency begin to erode. If this trend continues, Dr Freeman feels new attitudes will need to occur with both Africans and Western/Northern partners. Dr Freeman's presentations are on the eve of the G-8 Summit which Tony Blair is hosting July 6-8 in Scotland. Africa and climate change are priorities for the discussions amongst the industrial leaders.

Canada's International Development Research Centre is one of the world's leading institutions in the generation and application of new knowledge to meet the challenges of international development. For more than 30 years, IDRC has worked in close collaboration with researchers from the developing world in their search for the means to build healthier, more equitable, and more prosperous societies.

The British Columbia Council for International Cooperation (BCCIC) is a coalition of international development organizations. Through relationship-building with other networks, BCCIC works toward its goal of achieving sustainable global development in a peaceful and healthy environment with social justice, human dignity and participation for all.

2. EARTHSEEN

This week EarthSeen presents:

1. By Jeremy Williams, a documentary on the recent struggle to protect the Upper Walbran Valley on the west coast of Vancouver Island. Part of the territory of the Pacheedaht First Nation, the Walbran Valley was the site of a musical uprising on October 9, 2004. It was the largest forest protection gathering since the Clayoquot Sound blockades. Aerial artist John Quigley shaped the chorus into a 60,000 square foot "living sculpture" of the Tree of Life. (13:40)

2. The Pacific Environmental Science Centre tenth anniversary June 8, 2005 (in pelting rain) at Maplewood Flats in North Vancouver, BC. Caught on camera celebrating are Chief Leah George-Wilson of the Tsiel-Waututh First Nation, Mayor Janis Harris of the District of North Vancouver, Patricia Banning-Lover of the Wild Bird Trust, Jim Cox of the Vancouver Port Authority and Don Fast, Paul Kluckner and Chris Pharo of Environment Canada. Good news story of many people and interests working together to create a science centre and wild bird sanctuary. (13:25)

Sunday June 19 at 1:00pm Monday June 20 at 10:30pm Thursday June 23 2:30pm Saturday June 25 at 11:30am

On Shaw cable 4 - the community channel - in Greater Vancouver and Fraser Valley. EarthSeen, Greater Vancouver's longest continuous running (since 1994) environmental and social justice activist television program, broadcasts because ICTV Independent Community Television Co-operative exercises its entitlement to access and resources from Shaw cable 4, the cable community channel.

EarthSeen, an ICTV volunteer production, is made possible by the British Columbia Environmental Network Foundation (BCENEF) and the ACCESS Association of Chinese Canadians for Equality and Solidarity Society.

If you want copies, set your VCR to record it. Or ask a friend. It takes a lot of time to respond to requests for copies, especially since this is volunteer community television and we have hard costs for tapes, transportation and refreshments. And yes, you are always welcome to send in a couple of dollars to support citizen access to the community channel.

Also let our broadcast regulator, the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission (email: procedure@crtc.gc.ca), know what you think about the current state of community television in Vancouver. Do it now as Shaw's license renewal is due this August.

Ask the CRTC why cable companies such as Shaw get all the public money from the subscriber-funded community channel levy and community television groups like ICTV get no money but have to deal with an arrogant, dismissive and rude Shaw management, which once denied ICTV and EarthSeen access, for their entitlement to resources and broadcasts.

For more about ICTV and to volunteer, go to www.vcn.bc.ca/ictv or call 604.254.5844. We are

3. STREET REP WAGES WAR ON INDIFFERENCE

VANCOUVER, BC - On June 24th, The Street Repertory Theatre Company fires its opening salvo into the urban theatre scene with an exploration of competitive aggression through the eyes of two Canadian playwrights, Daniel MacIvor and Michel Garneau. The evening promises a double-barreled bill of provocative Canadian plays in this inaugural battle in war on urban indifference.

Directed by Amanda Lockitch, MacIvor's Never Swim Alone and Garneau's Warriors will be onstage at the Pacific Theatre from Friday, June 24th to Saturday, July 9th, 2005.

Tickets for the show are $22/ general admission and $18 /students, available at <http://www.festivalboxoffice.com> and at the Pacific Theatre before the show. Details at <http://www.streetrep.ca>.

In 2004, founder Jeff Fisher united a battalion of socially conscious theatre veterans (Thrasso Petras, Al Frisk, Erin Harris to name a few) to form The Street Repertory Theatre Company.

Their goal: to use theatre and art to fuel discussion and find solutions to those issues confronting urban society. For Fisher,

Never Swim Alone

provided an excellent opportunity to explore an important theme on

hit list: competitive aggression and greed.

"There's an important connection between one's competitive aggression on a personal and professional level and competitive aggression on a global level." says Fisher, "The same forces that lead to international conflict are visible in our communities and in our personal lives."

That both plays are Canadian is also significant for Fisher: "Given our proximity both geographically and culturally to the U.S., the Canadian perspective is increasingly important.

As well as providing a mirror with which Canadians can better understand themselves, it provides an important perspective for anyone concerned with global politics." Perspective is what this performance is all about, for in addition to the director's and actors' interpretations of the scripts, the audience will get to see the perspective of two local artists, as The Cold World graffiti crew and Jason Cusator are each producing an art series based on the plays.

Director Amanda Lockitch (Random Productions' The Lesson: A Marathon Event; Vancouver Playhouse's

Trying,

Assistant-Director) was intrigued by the opportunity to work with plays that draw on two different stylistic traditions: "

Warriors

offers gripping dialogue in straight-up realism while

consistently and consciously breaks the fourth wall in an almost hypnotic structure of rhythm and repetition." For Lockitch "the excitement and reward is in directing such stylistically diverse yet equally captivating plays to explore such a powerful theme."

In keeping with their war on indifference, Street Rep Theatre will contribute a portion of each show's box office revenue to assisting street kids through

and to the protection and promotion of human rights through

Envisioning People's Struggles is a conference being organized on the weekend of June 24 - 26 to bring together issues and analysis from the many struggles against war, capitalism, colonialism, and imperialism. The conference will also explore and discuss the history of resistance movements locally and around the world to broaden and contextualize our understanding of current struggles, while emphasizing the need for long-term strategy and vision through open dialogue that builds solidarity between diverse organizing communities. Envisioning Peoples Struggles will bring together those at the forefront of self-determination struggles, and organizers and activists participating in active movements for indigenous sovereignty, against occupations in Iraq, Afghanistan, Palestine, Haiti and elsewhere; for justice for immigrants and refugees; for workers rights; for women's liberation; against the prison industrial complex; against capitalist/imperialist globalization; anti-poverty organizing, and more.

It will be a weekend of workshops, panels, films, and strategy sessions. Childcare available. Lunch provided on Saturday and Sunday.

One of our keynote speakers on the opening panel on the evening of Friday June 24th is Waleed Rabia. Waleed is a founder of Al Muajaha (?The Witness? or alternatively, ?Confrontation?); Iraq's first independent media project that was initiated one week after the war began, and associated with the IndyMedia Center. He was an embedded journalist with the Iraqi resistance forces from Northern to Southern Iraq, subproducer for the BBC, and liaison with internationals in Iraq such as Voices of Conscience, Iraq Solidarity Project, Big Noise Films, Naomi Klein, and others.

Some of our speakers on Saturday include Arthur-Martins Aginam who is a former Nigerian Public Affairs journalist, Arthur Manuel who is a Secwepemc defender, Gene McGuckin of Prepare the General Strike Committee, Nazilla Betta who is an Algerian physician on women's health and health under occupation, Don Pedro who is a leader of the Mayan peoples movement in Guatemala against Canadian corporations, Montreal-based author and activist Samir Hussain, Marysol Torres of the Vancouver Bolivarian Circle, Sid Shniad of the Telecommunications Workers Union, Gary McCarron from the SFU School of Communications, activists from the Ontario Coalition Against Poverty, Megan Olson who is a street nurse and recent recipient of a human rights award for her work in the Downtown Eastside, Hari Sharma who is the President of South Asian Network for Secularism and Democracy, community activists involved with the historic Red Power movement, well-known author Anthony Fenton, Erika Fuchs of a Mexican migrant workers support group, speakers from the Haida Nation, Sid Tan from the Chinese Canadians Head Tax Redress Campaign, Cecilia Pereyra who is a local Latina activist, and many others.

Our program for the weekend includes two highly unique and participatory events: A Canadian Refugee Camp and A Historical Resistance Walking Tour of the Downtown Eastside. On Saturday, community activists and residents of the neighbourhood will guide the Historical Resistance Walk of the Downtown Eastside with a history of the many poor, working class, and racialized communities that have shaped the neighbourhood's culture and resisted gentrification and displacement. The Canadian Refugee Camp will go up on Sunday and involves the collective organization and participation of over a dozen immigrant and refugee community organizations in Vancouver who have been engaged in historic and present struggle against exclusionary immigration policies.

+++++ ORGANIZERS OF THE CONFERENCE

The organizing of the Envisioning Peoples Conference is not directly related to any group or organization, however all of the organizers of the Conference Committee are heavily involved and implicated in the myriad of struggles and movements that are represented in the Conference. We came together as activists and organizers finding the need for long-term vision, strategy, and face-to-face relationship building.

We are asking people to pre-register for the conference, as space is limited. Registration information is included below in this email and is also on the website. The conference is by donation (suggested donation 10-20$ for the entire conference including food and all the film festival). No one turned away for lack of $.

SUPPORTING THE CONFERENCE

* We are in the process of organizing volunteer childcare, preparing food and securing food donations, organizing vehicles, organizing housing for out-of-town participants, and many other tasks. If you can help with any of this, please get in touch.

* Information tables at the Conference: We are still in the process of sorting out the logistics of information tables at the conference, please watch out for another email on this.

* We are in need of funding to meet the various costs associated with this conference, including transportation for out-of-town guests, and making sure the conference is accessible to participants. If you can donate, please get in touch.

- Lisa Yazdi (Iranian activist and Masters student): US hegemony in Iran & the Iranian elections

- Dustin Johnson (Indigenous Students Society): Resistance to colonialism in Canada

* 1-4 pm: ?A Canadian Refugee Camp? at Victory Square (Cambie and Hastings) The Refugee Camp, constructed by over dozen immigrant/refugee groups, highlights well known policies in Canadian immigration history such as the Chinese Head Tax, the internment of Japanese-Canadians, the "None is too Many" policy for Jewish refugees, and the exclusion of South Asian migrants on the Komagata Maru; a history that is repeating itself with the economic, political and imperialist drive of the "War on Terrorism" both at home and abroad. The Camp also draws links between Canadian corporate and state policies against indigenous peoples and Third World peoples that are the roots causes of war, displacement and migration.

* Lunch will be served at the Refugee Camp (Victory Square) from 1:30 to 2:30 pm

* 2- 4 pm: ?STATUS FOR ALL!? MARCH. Gather at Victory Square A silent march to honour all the deportees struggling against Citizenship and Immigration Canada. This march is being organized to coincide with the historic 200 km walk from Montreal to Ottawa being organized by Solidarity Across Borders- a Montreal network of self-organized refugee groups, individuals and their allies- from June 18-25, 2005. For every agonizing moment, for every day spent in anxiety, for every detention, for every deportation, for the stolen time and the stolen lives, this march will pay tribute to all those fighting in this silent war. Organized by a network of immigrant groups in Vancouver.

* 4:30- 7 pm: Anti-oppression organizing in an anti-imperialist/anti-capitalist context.--- THIS WORKSHOP HAS MANDATORY REGISTRATION TO ENSURE A MINIMUM AND MAXIMUM NUMBER OF PARTICIPANTS.

?Can anti-oppression politics provide a model for a multi-faceted analysis that addresses oppression and class exploitation as distinct but nevertheless intimately interrelated social relationships??

? Sharmeen Khan, ?Roundtable on Anti-Oppression Politics in Anti-Capitalist Movements?

Anti-oppression arose out of the left's failure to develop a nuanced approach to questions of oppression. In recent years, the left has been influenced by anti-oppression analyses, as the movement has sought to address the effects of capitalism on different communities. Although anti-oppression organizing has pejoratively been labeled ?identity politics?, it serves as a necessary foundation to ensure a systemic analysis of capitalism and expand the analysis of radical organizing that does not get co-opted by the liberal discourse of multiculturalism and women?s/ queer rights. This comprehensive workshop will explore the being organized by Solidarity Across Borders- a Montreal network of self-organized refugee groups, individuals and their allies- from June 18-25, 2005 to draw attention to the struggles of refugees and immigrants for life and dignity. Dozens of groups have so far endorsed the march, including the Canadian Auto Workers (CAW), the Canadian Union of Postal Employees (CUPW), the Quebec Women's Federation (FFQ), and many more.

Lack of status, deportations, detentions, and security certificates all contribute to making migrants vulnerable to exploitation, poverty, insecurity and indignities that no one should suffer. In the current political context, as Canada rushes to harmonize its border policies with the United States to create a unified "Fortress North America", the situation of immigrants and refugees is worsening.

Every day, thousands of migrants and their families struggle against the uncertainties created by the racist and anti-poor processes of criminalization carried out by Immigration Canada. They are forced underground; threatened with detention or with deportation to desperate situations; and subjected to discriminatory legal standards. The people whose lives have been torn apart by Canadian immigration are not anonymous; they are our friends and neighbors. Some families threatened with deportation have lived and worked in Vancouver for several years and have Canadian-born children; this is their home. In the past years, we have written hundreds of letters, collected thousands of signatures, and organized dozens of demonstrations. We have successfully fought deportations and detentions, but have also seen our family members and friends removed, detained, forced underground or forced into sanctuary.

In Vancouver, the migrant communities leading the march are simply demanding their basic rights to a secure life, dignity and a future. Our demands for regularization call for the recognition and affirmation of rights and status of people residing in Canada without permanent residency- non status peoples, refugees, and temporary workers.

For every arbitrary detention, for every summary deportation, for every minute spent in jail without charge or trial, for every anxious and dehumanizing day spent waiting for status? for all the stolen time and the stolen lives -- this march will pay tribute to all those fighting in this silent battle.

Organized by Association of Chinese Canadians for Equality and Solidarity Society, Vancouver Status of Women, No One Is Illegal, Iranian Federation of Refugees, Kalayaan Centre (Philippine Women Centre), South Asian Network for Secularism and Democracy, Iranian Refugees of BC, La Surda Latin American Collective, Committee for Solidarity with Columbia.

10. CHALLENGING WALMART

I emailed the accompanying message to Vancouver City Council. I urge all who receive this to email at least councillor Louie to urge him to vote against the Walmart proposal. The emails of the other council members are available at <http://vancouver.ca/ctyclerk/councilmembers.htm> .

The vote on Walmart was postponed Tuesday night, but it emerged that with Louie's return there will, unbelievably, be enough votes to support it. It is imperative that we flood council with demands that this not happen. Please take action to defend this city, and working people everywhere.

Walmart

Excerpt from a speech made by Lucy Parsons, black woman, activist, anarchist, and wife of the Haymarket martyr, Albert Parsons. Lucy attended and addressed the founding convention of the IWW on the afternoon of June 28, 1905. On the afternoon of June 29, in relation to women's oppression she said, "There was never a greater truth uttered. We are the slaves of the slaves. We are exploited more ruthlessly than men. Wherever wages are to be reduced the capitalist class use women to reduce them, and if there is anything that you men should do in the future it is to organize the women.. And I say that if the women had inaugurated a boycott of the State Street stores since the Teamsters strike, the stores would have surrendered long ago. I do not stand before you to brag. I had no man connected with that strike to make it of interest to me to boycott the stores, but I have not bought one penny's worth there since that strike was inaugurated. I intended to boycott all of them as one individual at least, so it is important to educate the women.

Now, I wish to show my sisters here that we fasten the chains of slavery upon our sisters, sometimes unwittingly, when we go down to the department store and look around so cheap. When we come to reflect it simply means the robbery of our sisters, for we know that the things cannot be made for such prices and give women who made them fair wages.?"

□□□ Councillor Louie: The Walmart decision has been postponed for a week, clearly to allow time for you to return to council and vote in favour of it. If you do so you will be contributing to the ongoing march to the bottom that Walmart represents; ruining an already damaged neighbourhood; violating the hopes and dreams of the majority of Vancouverites; and caving in to the endless demands of a group of corporate vampires. I beg you to reconsider your vote, in the historical context of the quote above. The kind of oppression Lucy Parsons fought will always thrive as long as there are politicians willing to sacrifice the public good, whether here or in other countries.

Dear Fellow Students,

I am writing to you today on a matter of extreme importance, not only for the Kwantlen University College Student Association (KSA, Local 26 of the Canadian Federation of Students), but also for the whole of the Canadian student movement.

A BC Supreme Court ruling was handed down on May 12, 2005 giving control of the KSA to a Kwantlen administration supported group of candidates in the KSA election. This case is a huge setback for students who believe that student organizations should operate free from interference from our institution's administrators. Here is the story:

On April 25, 2005 Kwantlen University College VP Derek Francis, met with the leader of a group of candidates, Aaron Takhar, who ran under the slate name Reduce All Fees Party (RAF) in the KSA election, to discuss how his slate was the proper KSA board of directors, that the current Board was preventing them from taking office because we were corrupt, and asked if the administration could help them out. Mr. Francis replied that if some proof could be provided of their victory that he would 'consider his options'. On April 27, the KSA Ombudsperson, acting completely outside his authority according to KSA Regulations and Bylaws, wrote a letter to Mr. Francis, that the new board of the KSA: RAF. Mr. Francis, at the request of Mr. Takhar promptly locked the current Board of the KSA out of their offices, posted security outside the doors and allowed RAF sole access. The current Board of the KSA sought a legal injunction against KUC for being locked out, for a declaration of who the winners of the KSA election were and costs from KUC for breaking our lease and costs associated with the lock-out.

Kwantlen University College should not have taken a side in the matter. If Mr. Takhar felt that there were problems with the KSA's election, and it was not perfect, RAF should have petitioned the court to review the election. Kwantlen University College should have pointed RAF in this direction instead of helping them perform a hostile take-over of the KSA offices. It is entirely possible that a court petition would have had the very similar results.

The Court's decision gave control of the KSA offices to the administration-supported group of RAF candidates. There were a few problems with the judges decision, like failing to review what happened during the KSA election but using it as a basis for who should constitute the KSA's Board for the next year; and also failed to label Kwantlen University College's actions as appropriate or not. This is especially disturbing because the same day we were locked out of our offices, the KSA filed a $500,000 lawsuit against Kwantlen University College for failing to collect and remit our fees properly. The judge was informed of this.

It is my fear that this decision can/will be used by administrations across the country to justify interfering and breaking contracts with, student organizations for their own ends. It is also my fear that this case will be used by right leaning governments as proof that students can't run their own organizations, and require administrators to watch over them and take control when 'necessary'. It is also my fear that labour unions will use it for the same reason. KSA staff abandoned the current Board and helped out RAF during the dispute at the direction of their union, CUPE 2396. The KSA Ombudsperson is in the union.

What happened to the KSA, happened because Kwantlen University College took a side in the KSA's election. Without their interference there would have been no injunctive hearing, and the election would have been properly reviewed to determine who the Board of Directors should be.

The decision was from Mr. Justice Maczko, in the case of Kwantlen Student Association v. Kwantlen University College and Mat Huff, Aaron Takhar, Javin Khatri, Joey Atwal and Mariana Nakhla.

I should also note that the Canadian Federation of Students sat on the sidelines and waited for the court to make its decision before openly supporting one side over the other. The CFS did not condemn the actions of Kwantlen University College.

During this dispute there was a provincial election in full swing. The KSA had put together an extremely aggressive advertising campaign designed to make post-secondary education a key voting issue in the election. It called for a reduction in tuition, increase in funding and re-instituting a system of up-front non-repayable student grants (which were eliminated the year before). Our campaign efforts were derailed the second week of the election by this dispute and post-secondary education failed to become an important issue in the election. The CFS basically had no campaign specifically on post-secondary education, and refused to participate in the KSA's campaign.

I am extremely disheartened by what has happened at my school. There are times when I have believed that the goals that our organizations and leaders put forward were the actual goals and values we are trying to achieve. This dispute, more than any other fight I have been engaged in on tuition or funding or against corrupt deans and administrators or just the fight for the right of students to have a voice at the policy table; this dispute has taught me that corruption wins, and that countless people will turn their backs on the values and ideals they espouse if it suits them politically or gives them some kind of gain. It is a sad time for students in Canada.

The annual general meeting for the Canadian Federation of Students recently occurred and I have been informed by attendees of that meeting that the old Board of Directors at the KSA was repeatedly badmouthed for not doing work etc. I have attached our annual report for the 2004-2005 year for your review.

If you have any questions, concerns or just want more details about what happened/is happening at the KSA please feel free to e-mail me at this address.

Sincerely,

Laura Anderson
